Your Friendly Ford Dealer

 From the road up, 1957 Fords are a complete departure from previous models. They will be unveiled by Ford dealers in 19 body styles, of which this is the four door Victoria, a member of the new "Fairlane 500" series. Fairlane models are nine inches longer and four inches lower than their 1956 counterparts. Though the new models are lower, interior headroom is as great as last year, since the car's chassis and floor are re-designed for a lower center of gravity.

YEAR-ROUND HAY FEEDING PAYS ON DAIRY FARMS

Hay feeding the year 'round pays on dairy farms.

Dr. W. S. Griffith, assistant dairy husbandman at VPI, says to give dairy cattle the chance to eat all the roughage they want to help them maintain production, and more immediately, to prevent the customary fall slump in milk production.

Feed racks or troughs are a practical way to keep hay available to the cows all the time. When pastures get short, the cows will make up the difference by eating more hay. If you don't have a suitable rack that can be used for hay feed, plan carefully before building one. It pays to do a sturdy job of building. For feeding in bad weather, it is best to have a roof with large, hinged doors. It will protect the hay from the weather and pay for its cost in a short time. A good hay rack must be movable. By changing the location of the rack you can get the cows to spread their manure more uniformly and prevent excess trampling of any one part of the pasture. And wheels on the rack will enable you to move it to the barn for filling.

In FASHION now

Although you are probably still in the process of tanning your body to your desired depth of color it is time to taper-off as far as your face is concerned.

This fall and winter you will want to be able to take advantage of all the lovely new colors of make-up to be offered. A delicate touch and a more natural looking effect than ever before will be in order.

Eye make-up is important but no more "doe eye" business. A coating of mascara then a brush through with an eyelash brush to do away with any possible beaded effect. A very light touch of color to the lid for daytime and a more dramatic depth for evening.

Brown should be outlined lightly with pencil. Very thin or light colored brows should be given a dusting of mascara after the pencil has been applied.

Liquid rouge has been developed into something as natural looking as baby's coloring. It is easy to apply and should be put on before any liquid powder base. For this reason, apply a bit more than you think necessary.

Many of the newer powder bases require no powder unless a mat finish is desired. Discolored spots and blemishes will become unnoticeable when covered with one of the new products designed for the job.

A lot of attention will be brought to focus on your hair this fall and winter. The new full brown look can be kept under control with the help of a spray.

You will enjoy helping yourself to a new look through flattering new make-up.

Appomattox is a growing town.

Any Cropland May Be Used For Reserve

Any farm land regularly used for the production of crops, fruits, tame hay, may be included in the Soil Bank's Conservation Reserve, advises W. D. Hix, III, chairman of the Appomattox County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Land which is eligible under the program must be non-crop land, land that is now cultivated for the Acreage Reserve, or land owned by the Federal Government.

When an approved practice is carried out on land designated as Conservation Reserve, the farmer will receive a payment for carrying out practices but which may not exceed up to 80 per cent of the cost of establishing the practice. He will also receive an annual payment of $8.00 per year, including the first year.

To qualify for payment, the farmer must reduce the previous year average acreage devoted or vested on his farm by the number of acres he places in the Conservation Reserve.

Chairman Hix advises that the closing date for signing up in the Conservation Reserve program for 1956 is October 15.

Oct. 14-20 Is Conservation Week in Va.

The week of October 14-20 has been proclaimed Conservation Week by Governor Thomas B. Stanley, reports T. Ed Dickerson, Soil Conservationist for Appomattox County.

As a part of observance, Robert E. Lee Soil Conservation District is asking all people in the district to pause long enough to take stock of where we stand with regard to the wise use and conservation of our lands, waters, forests and wildlife.

The district has been in operation since 1941. During that time working agreements have been entered into with the Soil Conservation, the Virginia Forest Service, the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, and the Highway Department. Each of these agencies has a part to play in the district program. However, agencies can't do the conservation job. The job is in the hands of the people. Agencies can help. Farmers and others can really put the job over by the excellent type of cooperation already received in this district.

There are 570 farms actually cooperating in Appomattox County. These farms have accomplished a tremendous total of conservation, and their influence is felt in ever-widening circles.

Strip cropping, terracing, land use changes, tree planting, pasture improvement, farm ponds, drainage, forest improvement, wildlife environment improvement and irrigation are some of the conservation measures in evidence on many of these 570 farms in Appomattox County.

Dickerson says farmers have made an excellent start, but much remains to be done before we can say that the conservation job is complete.
